

JINX JENKINS

Okay, this would be a good example of why I get to be the life coach and you two don't (Randa, Dot and Marlafaye exit.). Randa continued to be a little doubtful about my idea of the birthday party. But eventually, she got on board and we threw ourselves into it, spent the week getting ready for the big do in Randa's elegant dining room —we laid in caviar, the finest oysters, salmon mousse, all of her old granny's faves. Oh, and champagne, of course —doesn't hurt knowing a certain Texan who gets a steep discount. And I've got a great feeling about this. We'll have a ball and maybe, just maybe, Randa can finally win the old girl over. Look, I'm not kidding myself, it's a serious responsibility when someone puts her trust in you, but I was born for this! And it's a fantastic feeling that I might actually be able to help change people's lives for the better...which is topped only by the thrill of getting good liquor on the cheap! Wooo-hoo!